World Peace

To the people of Virginia: In the cause of World Peace, I call upon all the people of Virginia to gather in their usual places for divine worship on Armistice Day, Friday, November 11th, 1921, and there as well as in the home, pray for success in limiting National armaments, and the establishment of an everlasting peace in the world.

Armistice Day has been set aside to be observed as a public holiday throughout the Commonwealth of Virginia, and I urge the ministers of all denominations to assist proper ly in observing this third anni versary of the cessation of hostilities in the World War by gathering their respective congregations together in prayer on this day, not only for World Peace, but in grateful memory lives so generously given to their Nation's cause in the great struggle for the preservaof democracy.

WESTMORELAND DAVIS,

Wide Spread Organization Thousands of Virginia To bacco Growers received letters this week urging them to push farmers.

Kentuckians are preparing to market 75 per cent of this year's crop through their Cooperation Association. The North Carolina Growers are nearing a 50 per cent signup of tobacco Windows, Doors and Blinds, having long since passed their Messrs. E. T. Bondurant and Farrar Shelton of Virginia. who are now assisting with the campaign in South Carolina predict a fifty per cent signup in that State within the next six weeks.

The unorganized growers of South Carolina who accepted a 7½ per cent average of their tobacco in July, are signing now by thousands, as they learn that in Virginia where more than three-fifths of the tobacco farmers now have organized, tobacco sells at averages of thirty cents a pound

Virginia farmers who have signed the five year contract see in each day's sale of tobacco that they are being paid not to organize. For the crop that they were told they could not sell, they are receiving better prices than they got last year. This knowledge is aiding the campaign, and adding nundreds of new members to the Marketing Association every week.

While history repeats itself, we have another example of the policy which has been used in all past efforts of the growers to organize around their product for its sale. It is the same plan of satisfying the grower and lulling him to sleep with high prices until the grower has again lapsed into

Hitherto the process of relieving the grower of his justly gotten gain has been applied after high prices, and the to. bacco farmer has awakened to find 1914 and 1920 prices staring him in the face.

A 75 per cent signup of Virginia growers will prevent such tactics and from present indications, the growers of Virginia will pass that mark by Uhristmas.

People who want to buy corn do not know what to offer for it and those who have it for sale seem not to know what to ask for it. They read in the papers reports from some of the counties in the State saying there is a great supply of old corn on hand selling at redicu lously low prices and that there is hardly room to store the new crop, while in this section of Virginia the prolonged drouth caused the corn crop to be short. Hunters in great numbers from West Virginia and other places have come here in auto mobiles with camping out fits and dogs and the county clerk as been kept busy issueing icenses to the hunters.
